Tue chairman of the district committee, Mr. R. R. Geutry, has notified the members to meet in Danville, Sept. 2 to take steps to nominate a democratic candidate for the State Senate. The editor of this paper has been urged to become a candidate, but as it is his husiness to help other people get office and having no desire to taste of the flesh pots himself, of course he declines with thanks.

THE News-Letter has leased the prees and fixtures of the Somerset Republican and will, this week, enlarge to a six columu. The republicans didn't seem to want a paper in that county, so after trying them in every way Mr. Lewis gave up the effort and threw his subscription list and influence to the News Letter, which is steadily improving.

Tue Worker, a weekly prohibition paper published at Grayson, will work no more. There was no special demand for bition or surrender the offices. Very agreement between Chicago lines to adits existence and a cold and crnel people let it pine away and die. It is even harder to maintain a prohibition paper in Kentucky than a republican and Bro. He Got There. The diffident young man had wanted to propose to the girl, but for the life of him he did not know how to get about it. He read books on the subject and sought information from men who had experience, and while the theories were admirable in every instance, he found that the practice thereof was a different thing. He was walking with her one evening, thinking over these things, when her shoe became untied. She stuck out her pretty little boot with a smile, looked down at it, and he feil on his knees and tied the lace. Then he walked on with her, and the shoe became untied again. Shoes do that with great persistency, it seems, especiaily these summer shoes. The third time it happened be was ready, as before. "See if you can't tie a knot that will stick," she said as he worked away at it. He looked up at her tenderly.

"If I can't, I know a man who can," he said. "Do you want him to tie it?" she asked coquettishly. "Yes," he replied.

She jerked her foot away. He smiled to himself.

"It's the parson," he said, and he rose troit Free Press.

FISH-HATCHING HENS.

A Strange Use Made of Biddy by the

A society for the prevention of cruelty to hens in particular may be the next in the long list of societies designed for the amelioration of animal life. The hen is a cheery, good-natured creature if left to her own inclinations, but if any spark of reason exists in that small cavity allotted for her brains she must wonder why she is so seldom allowed to follow her natural instlucts. She is shut up when she would run free, stoned and driven violently away from choice pasture lands, ignominiously tied to a tree or soused in cold water when she longs to slt on a nest full of pretty eggs, and in order to get herself in good condition for Christmas or Thanksgiving she must run lither and thither from morning till night to get her small mouthfuls, Some other hen is usually after the fat worm or other tid-bit which she has espied, and if she is the victor she must swallow her morsel in dyspeptic haste else it will be snatched from her at the last moment. The latest indignlty practiced on this amiable bird is found in China, where the spawn of he action of the Democracy. fish is delicately placed inside of an eggshell from which the contents have been blown, and while the mother fish is darting off through cool waters in search of a good time, and while the eggs which she longs to brood over have been taken away, the insulted biddy is forced to slt on the fish eggs until they are ready to be placed in warm water, where they hatch at once. Then the fish stepmother is allowed to cluck her sweet and patient way back to her family until her services are again required.

to his feet and finished the work.—De- Announcing the Butchery of an Or ta Rural France.

The crier or tambourineur, as he is generally called, because he earries a drum, is one of the Institutions of rural France. A traveler in the valley of the Cele says, in "Wanderings by Southern Waters," that he found the tambourineur making the rounds of a town, lustily beating his drum to She had sense and courage, a heart awaken the curiosity of the inhabitants and accompanied by an ox, which he introduced to the public as "le bout ici present."

The crier's business is to announce to all whom it may concern that the animal is to be killed this very evening and that to-morrow morning its flesh will be sold at one franc twentyfive ceutimes the kilo. It will all go at a uniform price, for this is the custom. Those who want the aloyau or sirloin will only have to be in haste.

The ox, notwithstanding the fact that he has a rope tied round his nose great military nation!"-Youth's Com- and horns and is led by the butcher, evidently thinks it a great distinction to be tambourine; his expression indlcates that this is the proudest day of
